

Army ROTC

Our recruiting efforts focus on identifying and developing the Scholar-Athlete-Leader in college students to serve as Officers in the US Army. ROTC, the best leadership course in America, gives you the opportunity to learn excellent leadership and team management skills that can be useful in the military and in the job market.

The University of Maryland Army ROTC Department can award scholarships that cover either tuition and fees or room and board, along with a tax-free monthly stipend of $420 every month of the academic year, and a textbook allowance of $600 per semester.

ARMY ROTC

The Cultural Understanding and Language Program (CULP) is an opportunity for contracted cadets to travel around the world and experience language and cultural immersion in an allied nation. This often involves working with humanitarian service projects and visits to historically significant sites.

Ask about Project GO, an initiative to provide funds for study abroad programs for all ROTC cadets, contracted or not!

Summer Training Opportunities:

Contracted cadets have the opportunity to compete for a slot at a number of special schools, to include Airborne, Air Assault, and Mountain Warfare. Additionally, ROTC Juniors have the chance to attend Cadet Troop Leader Training, which gives them the opportunity to get an early look at life as a platoon leader in the US Army!

The Terrapin Battalion is part of the College of Undergraduate Studies at the University of Maryland. We prepare Officers of exceptional skill and character to lead the most effective fighting force on the planet:

THE UNITED STATES ARMY.

Academics

In spite of their busy schedules and difficult training, the Terrapin Battalion still maintains an average 3.2 GPA. They also consistently score high marks during summer training. These accomplishments have resulted in Terrapin Battalion cadets having an 80% chance of receiving their first or second branch choice as an Officer in the US Army.

Ranger Challenge

The Terrapin Battalion competes yearly in the Ranger Challenge competition. Ranger challenge gives cadets the opportunity to push themselves physically as well as learn important leadership skills beyond what their peers learn in the classroom. The Terrapin Battalion team has won its division multiple times and has even won the entire competition, placing first out of 39 other ROTC units.
